The Sedgwick County Sheriff's Office would like to invite you to participate in the Agriculture Livestock Information Network (A.L.I.N). The objective of this program is to more efficiently get information regarding stolen farm equipment, construction equipment and suspicious activities around your farms and businesses distributed across Sedgwick and the surrounding counties. The objective is to quickly inform all participants of suspicious activities and crime in your neighborhood.

If you are an agriculture producer, farmers cooperative, implement dealer or construction business and would like to register for the program or have questions contact the Sedgwick County Sheriff's Office Community Policing Unit at (316)522-2610 or email alin@sedgwick.gov attention Deputy Travis Clinesmith.

Once an individual or business has been put on the distribution list they will be able to receive emails from A.L.I.N. Anyone can send information to alin@sedgwick.gov but will not receive information until registered.

This program does not take the place of 911. If there is an emergency that requires law enforcement response call 911. If you have a piece of equipment stolen or there is a suspicious character in your area call 911. The next step will then be to email alin@sedgwick.gov. Please be sure to send a detailed email describing what was taken; color, brand, year, identifying marks and other descriptive information. If you are reporting a suspicious character, describe all individuals involved, any vehicle information and what the suspects were doing that caught your attention.
